

STEM Courses at Lorenzo de Medici Rome Campus

All STEM students are required to take History 281: Italy's Contribution to Modern Science

They must also take at least one class from the STEM offerings, and may take another 1-3 from the STEM classes or regular LdM offerings in humanities, social sciences, and Italian language/culture, for a total of 12-16 credits. Unlike other semester students, they are not required to take an Italian language class.
